EXTENWAY TERMINALS FEATURED IN LEADING HEALTHCARE JOURNAL

Montreal, February 9, 2011 – Extenway Solutions (TSX Venture Exchange: EY) is pleased to announce that its bedside terminals are the focus of a full-page article in the latest edition of Healthcare Information Management & Communications Canada, a highly-regarded industry publication with a reach of 13 000.

The article, which appears in the News section of the December 2010 issue, presents the infotainment platform as an innovative solution making its mark on the North American healthcare sector. After detailing the product's benefits for patients, clinicians and hospitals, the piece praises the terminal as "an extremely interesting development in healthcare media and connectivity solutions".

Healthcare Information Management & Communications Canada is the official journal of COACH, Canada's Health Informatics Association. Its readership is made up of CEOs, CIOs, clinicians and other professionals who are involved in the health care environment and have an interest in information technology.

Extenway is delighted with this latest media coverage, which offers further proof of the wide interest generated by its unique solution. The full article can be viewed at www.extenway.com/PDF/Healthcare%20Can_4thQuarter2010.pdf.
